STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

Thirteen persons of Bates College were admitted to the next Freshman class last Saturday. The class next year will doubtless be the largest ever at Bates. There is yet to be another examination.—The Juniors very much enjoyed excursions to the Poland Springs last week. The Sophomores have lately appeared with glasses all alike.—The Gymnasium is undergoing the repairs necessary before Commencement.

The Journal says the East Livermore Campmeeting Association met at the campground the 20th inst. The following officers were chosen: A. G. French, president, John Berry, vice-president, E. N. Billington, treasurer, E. F. French, secretary, C. W. Brown, assistant treasurer, A. G. French, auditor. The campmeeting will commence Aug. 30 and hold one week.

Cumberland.

The Brunswick Telegraph says quite a number of young salmon have been recently taken in nets at various places on the river, so the little beauties are multiplying and running.

Prof. Magoun recently exhibited a very vicious horse in Portland. He was owned by A. P. Hillman, and when young was perfectly gentle, but by bad treatment he became so vicious that no one dared to handle him, after he injured a number of men who had charge of him. Last September he was placed in a large box stall and has not been taken out of it until last Thursday. After working upon him about half an hour the Professor made him as kind as a kitten, and has used him as he pleased. He was considered quite a feat in horsemanship.

A HIT STORY

A New York man, who is spending the hot weather season with a family on Pine street was asked by the lady of the house if he would take a piece of the meat, as it wanted to sit, and he didn't want it to.

"Certainly," said he, and immediately started out to the barn where the hens were kept, to crush out the maternal prospects of this particular one.

He went straight for the nest to lift her off, and reached out his hand for that purpose, but immediately drew it back again and tucked it up under the other arm and squeezed it a little while he drew up his lips as if about to whistle something. Then he stood there and stared at the hen, and she lifted up her head and stared back at him, winking her eyes with singular velocity.

"Get off, won't you?" said he, after a pause.

She made no response. He drew out his hand and looked at a red spot on one of the knuckles, and then put the knuckle to his mouth to cool it, looking all the while at the hen, and wondering how on earth she moved so quickly. The longer he eyed her the less inclined he felt to touch her, and finally he climbed up a post to a beam which ran over the spot, and working his way out till he got just above the hen, took off his hat and shook it at her and advised her to "get." But she only looked at him one eye at a time and clucked outlandishly. He told her if she didn't leave he'd come down there and kick her through the barn, but immediately gave up the blood-thirsty design when he predicted that it was a dumb animal and couldn't reason like a human being.

Then he happened to think of his trousers, which were white linen, and rubbed his fingers on the beam to find them full of black dust; which led him to work his body around to look at his pants, and while making this very natural move he suddenly slipped, made a lunge to renew his hold, shrieked for help, slipped again, and then came down on top of the hen, smashing them both to the floor, upsetting a barrel and filling the air with dust, feathers, hen noises and shrieks.

When the family reached the barn, the unfortunate man looking something like a

ENOUGH OF THAT.

Some blame has been thrown upon the Massachusetts delegation for the part it took in this matter; but most unjustly.—They would undoubtedly been glad of an opportunity to secure another New England President, other things being equal, but they regarded that consideration in itself as a very small matter, and, under the circumstances, it simply did not influence their votes, which were given on general and national grounds.—[Boston Journal.

The Journal will permit us to say "Bosh!" and to suggest that the sooner that sort of fustian is dropped the better it will be for the credit of those most concerned. If the Boston papers have not yet learned, all the rest of the country has, that the hifalutin notion that Massachusetts was called to the task of regulating our National politics, was dispelled by the very ridiculous figure which it was made to cut at Cincinnati. We prefer at the outset of a campaign to cast a mantle of charitable silence over the manifestations of feebleness, incompetency, vacillation and self-conceit which were more humiliating to the Bay State than harmful to any one else; but the Journal must not ready and exalt a delegation which we believe misrepresented the Republican sentiment of Massachusetts, which had no settled convictions and which certainly elicited the reverse of tokens of admiration from the assembled representatives of the party.—The Journal must also permit us to remark that we have rarely observed anything more obtuse than its reference to National and Sectional aspects of the Convention. If Mr. Blaine was not a National candidate we are at a loss to imagine who could be so characterized. He entered the balloting with more than one-third of all the votes and considerably more than twice the number cast for any other candidate, during the whole contest he actually received from the various States and Territories 389 votes, or more than the number required for a nomination, and while the votes for his competitors—except in the final pot-pourri—were largely confined to a few localities, Mr. Blaine received votes from every State in the Union except Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and Nevada, and every Territory save Wyoming, and three of the above States were bound to "favorite sons." Prior to the final ballot he received either the entire or majority vote of Alabama, California, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, Oregon, Virginia, W. Virginia, Wisconsin and the unanimous vote of all the Territories but one, and adding Pennsylvania, whose unquestioned preference was shackled by intrigue until near the close, the above portion of the Blaine column represented 185 of the 366 Electoral votes, while he was also supported in numerous other delegations.

The Journal knows, or ought to know, that Mr. Blaine was recognized from the first and until the final flurry as the only candidate having anything like a National support, and it required the combined strength of six competitors, three Cabinet officers, one of them wielding the power upon the floor, and the whole influence of the Grant Administration to beat him by barely a handful of votes.

To claim any credit for the Massachusetts delegation in the nominations made or to talk about their voting on "general and National grounds" is decidedly childish, for they did not give Governor Hayes a single vote through all the ballots until the last, and then after the blundering threat of their chairman that no one but Bristow could carry Massachusetts. With the magnificent friendship exhibited by the Great West toward Maine at Cincinnati, we can well afford to make slight account of the envious incivility of some of our nearer neighbors. In this State we believe in the duty of securing the triumph of Republican principles, and while we address ourselves to the task of adding another glorious page to Maine's unblemished Republican record inspired by the example of our great leader, we feel justified in suggesting with all kindness that Massachusetts would do well to cease for a few months the attempt to regulate the universe, and to put forth the earnest and practical efforts required to repudiate Mr. Dana's classification of the Commonwealth among the doubtful States.

Meanwhile we commend to the Journal's consideration the following statement telegraphed from Cincinnati on the evening after the Convention by its well-informed correspondent, Maj. Ben Perley Poore:

"The friends of Gov. Hayes in the Ohio delegation had hard work to hold the sixteen delegates in that delegation who were friends of Blaine. Indeed, could every delegate have voted in accordance with his individual preference, and not have been tied by the action of his delegation, it can be demonstrated beyond all doubt that Blaine would have been nominated on the first ballot. This compulsory State action really placed the power to nominate in the hands of four or five of the larger States."

We notice that numerous journals, and conspicuously some in Boston, very earnestly deprecate Mr. Blaine's transfer from the House to the Senate because he is so much needed as a leader in the popular branch. Well, Mr. Blaine has rendered full and faithful service there, and in promoting him to the Senate as a merited reward we may suggest to our Bay State friends that a fine opportunity will be afforded them to furnish a leader from among their eleven Representatives. If they fail to do so perhaps we can furnish another leader from our own delegation.

THE FOURTH DISTRICT.

[From the Kennebec Journal.]

The Convention of the Republicans of the Fourth Congressional District, held in Bangor, on Thursday, was so fully attended that the decision at which it arrived ought to be emphatic enough to receive the undivided support of the Republican party throughout the District. The men of Aroostook—the "bone and muscle" of the county—came up united and unanimous for their candidate, presenting the name of Llewellyn Powers.

Last year, for the sake of harmony, so essential to success, they were willing to set aside their conceded claims to the place, and helped elect Mr. Plaisted, with the distinct understanding that their claims should have recognition this year. Mr. Powers will go out of his own county with a handsome majority, and should this be overcome by the indifference or positive opposition of Penobscot or Piscataquis, and a Democratic representative chosen—(Marcellus Emery, perhaps—) then the power in that District will pass from the hands of the Republicans, perhaps for many years. It will be a most dangerous experiment to try.

Mr. Powers has been the object of malignant personal slanders affecting his character as a man. These he has squarely met, and they have been found to be but miserable lies, in the courts of justice. Those who know him best take no stock in these reports; his friends and neighbors, some of the best men in Aroostook county, do not believe them. Mr. Powers' popularity is acknowledged on every hand. Had the voters in the entire district seen the earnestness and interest of the delegates from Aroostook, they would be enthused of this fact.

Mr. Powers is a lawyer by profession, of superior talents and excellent standing at the bar. His leadership in the House of Representatives last winter, was admitted, even by the Democrats. He is 38 years of age, was born in Pittsfield, educated at Colby University and the law department of Albany University, N. Y. County Attorney of Aroostook county from Jan. 1st, 1865, to Jan. 1st, 1871: Collector of Customs for the District of Aroostook for the term of four years; member of the House in 1874-75-76. He is a ready debater, a fluent and popular speaker, and successful business man. Should he be elected, (and with the party united he can be), the Republicans of the Fourth District will never have occasion to regret their action.

In copying the above from our Augusta contemporary we assure it that there is not the slightest danger of the recreancy of the Old Fourth District. There is no division in the Republican party, and now that the nomination has been honorably, decisively and satisfactorily made, the Republicans of the District will join hands in electing our candidate and in giving the Democracy an old-time defeat. Our people understand that this is no time to send reinforcements to the Confederate Congress from Maine, and the sterling Republicanism and conspicuous abilities of Mr. Powers will command the warmest support in the coming canvass.

Washington despatches report that Mr. Blaine's convalescence has been retarded by over-exertion in responding to a serenade last week and in acceding to the desire of too many friends who wished to see and converse with him. He is still physically weak and imperatively needs rest and a change from the sultry and malarial atmosphere of Washington, and his physicians have enjoined him to leave for his Augusta home as soon as he is in condition for the journey. He will probably take a special car for Maine early this week, if he gains sufficient strength, and a period of absolute rest will undoubtedly prove more effectual than anything else in hastening his complete recovery. It is stated that Senator Morrill has decided to accept the Treasury portfolio on the first of July, and Governor Connor will then have an opportunity to give effect to the earnest wishes of the Republicans of Maine by tendering Mr. Blaine the vacant seat in the Senate.

Our Bourbon contemporary indulges in a feeble attempt at a joke concerning the substitution of the name of Mr. Hayes in place of Mr. Blaine's at the head of our columns during the absence of the Editor as a delegate to the Republican National Convention. In glancing over the files since our return we notice that the Democratic State Convention kindly spared our neighbor the necessity of leaving his paper, by casting all but 71 votes out of 523 in favor of permitting him to remain at home during the St. Louis proceedings.—And still it is said he doesn't appreciate the thoughtfulness manifested in his case.

The eminent ability displayed by Hon. Eugene Hale in Congress amply warrants a hearty congratulation of the Republicans of the Fifth District upon his renomination for Representative. We want all the good men we can get in the next Congress, and our Fifth District friends should go to work at once and with a will to insure Mr. Hale a rousing majority.

The only unfavorable thing we have seen in print concerning the Republican National ticket is a report that Kilpatrick says he is "delighted with it." We hope some friend of Governor Hayes will promptly sit down upon the ranting trooper.

WAS IT FOUL PLAY?

DEAD BODY FOUND!

Early this morning one of our prominent citizens, while engaged in the manly exercise of leaning against a neighbor's fence, suddenly felt that the tympanum of his auricular appendages had been [illegible] by sounds as of something in distress. Though he was not endowed with a heart that had been attuned to solemn sounds, he resolved to at once ascertain from whence the groans of agony proceeded. Hastening with the speed of an Arabian Courser, this citizen, rather than reason, to [illegible] he saw, prostrate in the sand, and writhing in the agonies of death, one "Thomas," a quarrelsome yet nevertheless a member of a feline band. The author of the bloody deed was discovered sitting upon a garden wall, his face aglow with a fiendish light, and his hands still clenched the weapon which had sped the missile with fatal effect far into the middle wings of the aforesaid Thomas. No coroner's inquest has yet been held, but public opinion declares that the deadly weapon used to this unfortunate affair was of the kind known as the "Centennial Gun," and purchased from PAUL R. SEAVEY, No. 3 Kenduskeag Bridge. It is feared that our city will soon be deprived of those top concerts at night, unless a restriction is placed upon the sale of these guns, which are offered at the low price of $1.

THE TOMPKINS COUNTY JUNIOR SULKY RAKE.

Independent Self-Tilting,
Independent Hand-Dumping,

The only Completely Controlable Self-Tilting Rake.

A child can operate it with either Dump. First class in every particular, best of teeth, best of material, good workmanship, well finished, capacity for a great variety of work. Has many special points. The more it is used the better it is liked. Well worthy the attention of farmers and dealers.

Its teeth are spring steel, tempered in oil, can be raised by the foot-dump to any desired height from the ground, carried any distance and dropped at any instant, same as is done by hand.

It is the only completely controllable self-operating, or wheel-discharging rake.

No unreliable gears, ratchets, clutches, springs, or brakes, nor other flimsy traps to get out of repair. Any blacksmith can replace any part on the rake that is over liable through accident to break.

Its self-discharging device has no lost motion, and is remarkably simple. It moves little to operate, neither does it crush or hitch the hand-dump.

It can be operated by the foot alone, leaving both hands free for driving, yet it is a complete hand-dumping Rake, at the will of the driver—thereby allowing of an agreeable change.

It can be discharged rapidly and easily, by either hand or foot.

THE REPORT OF THE EXPERT

What Mr. Francis Says About the Dam

[illegible] ... Having been engaged by your ... to examine the dam now being built ... [illegible]

THE DAM.

[illegible]

The super-structure of the dam is well built, and in my opinion [is] sufficient ... would not prevent the passage of water under the dam in many places, and it must depend for security on the gravelling, which should be put in ... The apron in the lowstream side ... should be extended so as to be at least 4 feet in width ... [illegible]

With the gravel and apron put in and maintained in the condition I have suggested I am of opinion that the dam will stand permanently, although it is obvious that there would be greater certainty of it if built wholly on the rock.

I am informed that the dam is being built with the expectation of raising it seven or eight feet at some future time, and have been asked if in my opinion it can be done with safety. So far as the superstructure is concerned I think it may be done. The apron would have to be extended, and strengthened, and it would be more difficult to keep in repair, unless made very massive and heavily plated with iron. A large addition should also be made to the gravelling.

THE EASTERLY ABUTMENT AND WING WALL.

The abutment is a substantial piece of masonry faced with ... granite, but it will be exposed ... of ice to an extent that can scarcely be foreseen, and I think it probable it may require repairs from time to time. The wing wall, I think is ... [illegible] ... being built on the rock, and part of its thickness only, being laid in cement, the water at every tide flows in and out through its length. I think a part, say about 15 feet of the end should be ... with the part remaining to be built be laid entirely in cement on the rock. The dry wall in the parts not taken down should be grouted, which can be done by making openings in the back of the wall part way down from the top, and mixing the sand with the cement.

The part of the wing wall not taken down, I think should be faced with another wall about four feet thick, extending from the rock to the level of the crest of the dam, with a return to the toe of the dam, connecting the planking with the rock, unless this or its equivalent is done already of which I am not informed.

The top of the abutment and wing wall I understand is intended to be 8½ feet above the crest of the dam. I think this is not sufficient to provide against all contingencies. My knowledge of the river is, however, too limited to enable me to give any definite opinion as to what its height should be, but from the information I have, I should say eleven or twelve feet. The wing wall should be covered with earth as far as practicable, to protect the cement from the action of frost.

THE WESTERLY ABUTMENT AND WING WALL.

These are built on the rock and of excellent masonry, but should be carried up to the same level as suggested for the easterly abutment and wing. The return or wing I think is too thin, and I recommend that an addition be made to it on the back of about four feet. The wall connecting the wing with the wheel-house not yet built, should be carried up to the same height and be of corresponding thickness.

THE WHEELHOUSE AND WATER-WHEELS FOR DRIVING THE PUMPS.

As I am informed it is intended to provide three Stout, Mills and Temple's American Turbine water wheels, seven feet in diameter. I do not doubt but these will be sufficient in ordinary circumstances, but as I am informed there will be times when the available head will not exceed four feet at such times according to the printed tables, they would not be able to pump at the rate of three millions of gallons for twenty-four hours.

I should recommend a larger wheel-pit and means of supplying water to the wheels, ... [illegible] ... I think there will be times when ... interfere with the running of the water wheels, and I would suggest ... steam engine to provide for that and other contingencies.

LOCK.

It is understood that a lock must be provided to enable vessels to pass the Dam. The most convenient position for the vessels using it, I presume, would be near the middle of the Dam in the line of the main channel, but it would be very difficult to ... there, without incurring damage ... and it would also be a considerable obstruction to the discharge of the water over the Dam in freshets. The space on the westerly side of the river is occupied by the pumping works, and the only available place would appear to be on the easterly side. I am not advised as to the necessary dimensions of the lock ... If located as suggested, it would require ... and I would be a large addition to the cost of the works ... I should imagine, that any advantage to be gained by it to any existing interests.

The question has been asked me—If a canal is to be made through the ledge on the Bangor side of the river, and a flume through the dam on the Bangor side, with head gates for both canal and ... when would be the proper time to put them in ... taking into consideration ... inconvenience ... of doing the work?

In reply I have to say that if such works will be needed in the future, and it is known definitely what is required, it would be economy to construct them now, otherwise I think it would be more prudent to defer them, even at a somewhat greater cost.

Very respectfully,
JAMES B. FRANCIS.

A FEW THINGS THAT WE KNOW. We know that a disordered stomach or liver produces more suffering than any other cause. We know that very few physicians are successful in their treatment of these disorders. We know that DaCosta's Radical Cure will, without the shadow of a doubt, almost immediately relieve and permanently cure all of these distressing symptoms. We know of thousands who are willing to testify that what we say is true to the letter. We know that if you will give it a fair trial you will let us add your name to the "cloud of witnesses." Will you give it a trial, and do it now? Trial size only 25c. Sold by Wm. E. Mann and J. F. Patten, Bangor. Folsom Bros., Oldtown. R. B. Stover and A. F. Page, Bucksport. THINK FOR YOURSELF. Thousands of miserable lives, suffering from dyspepsia, a disordered stomach and liver, producing biliousness, heartburn, costiveness, weakness, irregular appetite, low spirits, raising food after eating, and often ending in fatal attacks of fever. THEY KNOW THEY ARE SICK, yet get little sympathy. The unfailing remedy which is yearly restoring thousands, is DaCosta's Radical Cure, sold by WM. E. MANN and J. F. PATTEN, Bangor. FOLSOM BROS., Oldtown. R. B. STOVER and A. F. PAGE, Bucksport. A 25c. bottle will convince you of its merits. Don't delay another hour after reading this, but go and get a bottle, and your relief is as certain as you live. Will you do it, or will you continue to suffer? Think for yourself. DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEA WEED TONIC, AND MANDRAKE PILLS. These medicines have undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American public. They are compounded of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution. Other remedies advertised as cures for Consumption, probably contain opium which is a somewhat dangerous drug in all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients, it must do great injury; for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter in the system, which, of course, must make a cure impossible. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted not to contain a particle of opium. It is composed of powerful but harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach, and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions, and expel all the diseased matter from the body. These are the only means by which Consumption can be cured, and as Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way, it is obvious they are the only genuine cure for Pulmonary Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine is accompanied by full directions. Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. eod1m
